RAILWAY HOSPITALS.

SAN ANTONIO, Texas, Jan. 30.— A despatch to the Express from Monterey, Mexico, says: A petition is being drafted by the grand lodge of Mexican Railway Employees in session here for presentation to the federal government in criticism of the railway hospitals of this republic and requesting that a thorough investigation be made. The petition also proposes that the railroads be required to employ none who do not speak, read and write the Spanish language.

IRON STATISTICS.

PHILADELPHIA, Jan. 30.—The American Iron & Steel Association has received from the the manufacturers complete statistics on the production of all kinds of pig iron in the United States and Canada in 1907.
The total production in the United States was 25,781,361 tons against 25,308,191 tons in 1906.

The total number of furnaces in blast on December 31, 1907, was 167, compared with 340 at the same time in 1906.

In Canada the total production in 1907 amounted to 581,146 tons against 541,957 in 1905.

PINCHOT'S REPORT.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 30.—The house committee on agriculture has received the following data from Gifford Pinchot as to the receipts and expenditures of the forestry bureau for the year 1907: Receipts from grazing on public lands, $864,000; from timber $603,000; total, $1,467, 000; total expenses, $1,530,000, excess of expenditures over receipts, $63, 000. Mr. Pinchot asks for an appropriation of $300,000 for the coming fiscal year.

Benbow and His Messemate.
When the brave Admiral Benbow was a common sailor his messemate, who was stationed with him at the same gun, lost his leg by a cannon shot. The poor fellow called to his friend Benbow, who took him upon his shoulder and descended with him to the cockpit, but it happened that just as the poor fellow's head came upon a level with the deck another ball carried that off also. Benbow, however, knew nothing of the matter and carried the body down to the surgeon, calling out to the latter that he had brought a patient, desiring some one to bear a hand. The surgeon turned about and exclaimed:

"Why, what do you do here with a man who has lost his head?"

"Lost his head!" says Benbow. "A tying accident! He told me it was his leg, but I never believed what he said in my life without being sorry for it afterward."

Malay Literature.

The Malay tribes possess but little in the way of literature, the greater part like that of Java, consisting of reminiscences known under the Sanskrit name of "cheritra," or the Arabic one of "hikayat." Their subjects are taken from the Hindu epic, from the local legends of Java, from the Mohammedan tales from Arabia and from the stories of Malay princes, hardly less fabulous.
Such compositions differ from those of the Javanese in that the greater number of them are in prose. The Malays are possessed of no ancient manuscripts or inscriptions on stone or brass. Their whole literature, all in the Arabic character, is certainly not of greater antiquity than their conversion to the Mohammedan religion, the earliest recorded specimen of it being the vocabulary of the Italian Pigafetta, collected in the Moluccas in 1521.

His Share.

A gamekeeper found a boy fishing in his master's private waters.
"You mustn't fish here!" he exclaimed. "These waters belong to the Earl of A."

"Do they? I didn't know that," replied the culprit, laying aside his rod.
He then took up a book and commenced reading.

The keeper departed, but on returning about an hour afterward found the same youth had started fishing again.

"Do you understand that this water belongs to the Earl of A?" he roared.
"Why, you told me that an hour ago!" exclaimed the angler, in surprise. "Surely the whole river doesn't belong to him? His share went by long ago!"—London Telegraph.

No Hessians Need Apply.

Aunt Sally Linnekin was looking ad-miringly at a collection of souvenir postal cards brought back from Europe by one of her summer boarders.

"Now, this one," said he, showing a handsome card, "is from Hesse, where those Hessian soldiers came from, you know."

Aunt Sally put down the cards and rose up in intense indignation.
"Land sakes!" she exclaimed in horror. "Did you go there?"

No Secret.

"Well, well," exclaimed Miss Passay, "so she's twenty-five today. I guess it would surprise her if I should tell her I was the same age."

"Oh, no," replied Miss Knox; "she knows that, of course."

"She knows that I'm twenty-five?"

"No; that you were."—Philadelphia

A Lovable Friend.
A book is a lovable friend. It is responsive to every mood. It never finds fault. It never scolds. It reveals everything to you when you are in a thoroughly inquiring frame of mind.
When you are mystical it puzzles you just enough to satisfy the "digging bent" of your nature at that particular moment. If you grow tired and put it aside unceremoniously, it never re-proaches but greets you more cheerfully the next time and offers you the best it has and tries again to enter to your best impulses. When you wish to visit the ruins of antiquity it guides you all the way. You may travel through ancient Rome and view her fallen splendors. You may talk with Marie Antoinette or enjoy the society of Queen Elizabeth. You may feast with the great or sympathize with the poor. You may do all this when you will, with whom you will and as you will. Truly, as has been said, "What a lovable friend a book is."—Exchange.

The Soul.
The clairvoyants are almost unanimous in the opinion that the soul is a bipartite "something" having two seats in the human tabernacle—one in the heart and the other in the brain. The spiritualists say that in the case of a dying person the soul or spirit leaves its earthly envelope at the top of the head, appearing as a vapor which slowly assumes the form of the person who is expiring. The spiritualistic portrait of the dying person appears to not only be attached to the head of the person who is fast becoming a corpse, but seems to be also fastened in the region directly over the heart by a fluid ligament, which is severed at the instant that the "ghost man" leaves the head.
These two opinions, one by an eminent American spiritualist, the other by a German clairvoyant, seem to strangely coincide in the opinion that the soul has a seat in both the brain and the heart.
